Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Practical, hands-on learning

Study courses that are developed and reviewed with industry and professional input, providing excellent career outcomes. You'll also have access to various work experience and networking opportunities, as our School of Humanities and Social Sciences has strong partnerships with government as well as several high-profile organisations and Non-Government Organisations (NGOs) such as Save the Children.

Professional work experience can make all the difference when you graduate and apply for jobs. Give your resume a competitive edge, build your professional network and gain hands-on industry experience through an internship locally, interstate, or overseas, with a government, private sector, NGO or community organisation.

Travel across the globe

Experience new cultures, create networks across the world and gain credit towards your degree with a global mobility experience. You could pursue opportunities like:

- international internships
- in-country language programs
- international volunteering opportunities
- social enterprise projects
- study tours
- trimester exchange programs.

You could find yourself in Japan learning about culture and politics – or in Tibet experiencing a cultural immersion in Buddhist philosophy and hermeneutics. The benefits of an international study experience are limitless.

Enjoy a world-class education

A range of arts subjects at Deakin are ranked in the top 1% of university subjects in the world, including:

- arts and humanities
- philosophy
- politics and international studies
- social sciences and management
- sociology
- theology, divinity and religious studies.

This is according to the prestigious QS World University Rankings (2019), which is an annual university ranking and is one of the most influential and widely observed international university rankings.

Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Study when and where you want

Study arts, humanities and social sciences in Geelong, Melbourne or join the thousands of students currently studying online at Deakin's Cloud Campus. You'll learn with the same experts as on-campus students, with the ultimate flexibility to study anywhere, anytime.

Explore interesting and complementary areas

Open up a world of career options by studying an arts degree. There's plenty of flexibility within the arts so you can pursue your interests through various specialisations and work placements. You can also explore combined degrees to complete both courses in as little as four years. For example, combine politics and policy studies with nutrition, for a career in health policy in the Bachelor of Health Sciences/ Bachelor of Arts.

Learn from leaders in their fields

Our teaching staff are passionate professionals, recognised as innovators in their fields, which means you'll learn from the very best. Our academic staff are active in the media and conduct important research, making a positive impact in Australia and around the world.

#1 university in Victoria for student satisfaction

Year on year, our students are the most satisfied students of all Victorian universities<sup>1</sup>. We've ranked this highly for the past 10 years, with students being particularly happy with our:

- teaching
- learning resources
- student support
- skills development
- learner engagement.

'In my seminars at Deakin, I've been exposed to industry professionals who collaborate with us to develop our writing. The growth and experience I've gained as a writing student has made the idea of getting published while still at university a tangible goal.'

Maddie Brake

Learn a language and expand your world

Study one or more of some of the world's most strategically important languages – Arabic, Mandarin Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish. Each of these languages are in the top 10 most widely spoken languages in the world. Language learning at university can be highly rewarding and offers potential for intercultural engagement and overseas travel. Each of our languages offer in-country study options, to accelerate language learning. Further opportunities include international internships and professional placements, with many employers recognising the value of language learning combined with international experience.

Criminology students prepare for industry through career presentations from current criminology professionals who discuss their roles and offer advice.

Disciplines

Take a look through our disciplines (also known as study areas) to choose your area of expertise. Knowing which discipline you're interested in helps career practitioners find the best course for your interests. Corresponding courses are featured in the following pages, so you can learn more about what you'll study, professional work experience opportunities and the types of careers you could pursue. When you choose a course, you can then pick which discipline to specialise in within that course. Visit deakin.edu.au for detailed discipline and course information, including a description of the units within each degree.

Anthropology

What does it mean to be human? Anthropologists ask and strive to answer this question by studying humanity in the broadest sense. We analyse the lives of people in a range of societies and gain insights into the science behind human existence to understand how we relate to our environments. This allows us to understand how to work with people in diverse and international settings.

Arabic

Australia's trade with the Middle East has more than doubled in the past decade, making it an increasingly important region with broad strategic, economic, religious and cultural influence. Develop Arabic language fluency, and enhance it through an understanding of Middle Eastern history, culture and society.

Arabic at Deakin is a national award-winning program, with in-country language programs available to students.

Buddhist studies

Gain a multi-dimensional understanding of Buddhist cultures, philosophies and practices in traditional settings and contemporary interpretations. Develop knowledge of the major Buddhist traditions and learn how core Buddhist practices and ideas – such as mindfulness meditation – are adapted in contemporary western settings and impact our ideas of personal development.

Chinese

Add an international aspect to your degree to further your career opportunities. China is one of Australia's biggest trading partners and Standard Chinese, commonly known as Mandarin Chinese, is a major language of the world. It's the official language in the People's Republic of China, Taiwan and Singapore and widely used in community groups in Hong Kong, South-East Asia, North America and Australia. Chinese is also one of the five official languages of the United Nations.

Criminology

Criminology explores why and how some behaviours are defined as 'criminal' within society. It also considers ways to minimise crime and harm, and critically examines existing criminal justice policies, practices and institutions. To consider questions of justice, criminology draws on a number of disciplines including psychology, law, sociology, history and politics.

Deakin has one of the few dedicated criminology courses in Australia and the most established in Victoria. Designed in conjunction with professional bodies including Victoria Police and the Australian Criminal Intelligence Commission, the course covers a wide variety of criminology topics, including cyber security, surveillance, anti-terrorism and policing.

Gender and sexuality studies

Gender and sexuality play important roles in people's lives and society. This discipline gives you an analytical approach to the significance of sex, gender and sexuality and the important roles they often play in how we understand ourselves and the structures we live in. You'll develop the skills and knowledge to research, analyse and discuss expressions of gender and sexuality in different historical periods and in different cultural contexts.

Geography and society

Are you interested in understanding key geographical concepts and techniques to analyse and solve field-based problems? Geography and society at Deakin blends social theory and research with political practice to examine social and spatial structures, as well as policy interventions to address related problems. You'll explore why space, location and mobility matters in the constitution of society and the built environment, and learn how to connect social theory to practice and policy interventions.

History

Understand the makings of the modern world. We cover topics such as world history of the twentieth century, nineteenth and twentieth century Australian history (including indigenous-settler encounters), European history, Asian, American and Pacific histories and gender in history. You'll be taught by Deakin's renowned historians, who are at the forefront of bringing history into public conversations.

Indonesian

As the national language of the largest country in South East Asia, learning Indonesian in the Australian context makes good sense. Strong links between Australia and Indonesia offer significant opportunities for engagement. You'll also learn about Indonesian history and culture to develop a deeper understanding of the Indonesian nation and its people. Study options include intensive language programs in Indonesia offering enhanced opportunities for experiential learning and intercultural engagement.

International relations

Enhance your understanding of the key political dynamics of our time. International relations encompasses the study of policy-related dynamics such as diplomacy, foreign policy and global governance, as well as theoretical dynamics relating to questions of order, justice and resistance in world politics. It also considers questions relating to the changing nature of world politics, evident in emerging forms of regionalism and globalisation.

Islamic studies

Islam is one of the three major Abrahamic faiths and is the world's fastest growing religion, predicted to overtake Christianity as the pre-eminent creed in the next 50 years. Both Islam and Muslims are often in the media and a major focus of politics at both the state and federal level – but discussions are subject to inaccuracies and misinformation. This study area will help you understand Islam through theoretical and textual analysis, while simultaneously analysing popular culture and current affairs.

Disciplines

Language and culture studies

Learn the language and cultural context of the world's most strategically important languages – Arabic, Chinese or Indonesian. You will have unique opportunities to study overseas as part of your degree for a truly immersive learning experience. Learning a language can be fun and rewarding and builds transferable career skills like interpersonal communication.

Middle East studies

Deakin is at the forefront of Australian universities to offer a major in Middle East studies, making us best placed to give you a comprehensive understanding of the events and issues shaping the region. With an emphasis on both historical and contemporary issues relevant to the analysis of the Middle East, you'll explore the region's position in the international system.

Philosophy

What is philosophy? It literally translates as the 'love of wisdom'. Philosophy asks some of the most fundamental questions that you'll face in your life. Who or what are you? What do you know, and how do you know what you know? If you value questions as well as answers, philosophy is for you. Join us and investigate topics such as reality, existence, knowledge, values and language.

Politics and policy studies

Enhance your understanding of the big issues in the world today, and develop the skills to make a difference in your lifetime. You'll investigate the challenges posed to Australia and the world by climate change; asylum seekers and refugees; development; inequality; political parties and new social movements. Examine the ideas behind the policy and the rhetoric – and look globally for different solutions; investigate how policy lessons are learned; and assess the impact on domestic and global politics.

Professional experience and practice

We live in a rapidly changing world on the cusp of an employment revolution. While many of the jobs of today won't exist in the future, many of the jobs of the future don't yet exist today. How, then, can you best prepare for a career path that remains largely unknown? This study area offers you real-world learning experiences and is designed to advance your employment outcomes.

Take your studies beyond the classroom

Study a Bachelor of Arts and have the option to take part in a global mobility experience<sup>1</sup>. Choose from unique opportunities including:

- global study tours
- global volunteering projects
- in-country language study in Oman, China, Indonesia, or Spain
- individual professional internships in Jakarta, Tanzania and India
- social enterprise team internships in Borneo and Vietnam.

'My course and my units allow me to do practical assignments and develop skills that set me up for the workforce. The most rewarding aspect of studying at Deakin has been the internship experiences. As well as my degree, the internships demonstrated the roles and work I could be doing after I graduate.'

Tegan Rohan

Bachelor of Arts (Journalism and Public Relations) student

Religious studies

Understanding religion has seldom been as important as it is today. There is increasing dialogue among the greater religions of the world, but there is also increasing misunderstanding of religious traditions – one's own and other people's. Religious studies at Deakin explores religion from diverse viewpoints, with units from the disciplines of anthropology, philosophy, sociology, literary and cultural studies, and others.

Sociology

Study society, social groups and social relations. Thinking sociologically lets you critically understand the processes that shape the society we live in and the cultures within it. As a sociology student, you'll explore key aspects of everyday life including ethnicity, religion, gender, migration, consumerism, globalisation, deviance, health, youth culture and intimate relationships.

Spanish

Develop your Spanish language skills to build a global career. Learning a language is not only fun, it gives you insight into different cultures, develops your adaptability and communication skills, and makes you more employable.

Spanish is a major international language with more than 400 million speakers on five continents. It is the national language of more than twenty countries and the second most widely spoken language in the world. Spanish is an official language of the United Nations and of other international organisations such as the European Union and the Organisation of American States. In Australia, Spanish is one of the eight most common languages (excluding English) spoken in the home (ABS Census data 2016).

Sport and society

Sport's prominent role in society can be traced back to the ancient Olympics in Greece more than 2700 years ago. Today, sport enjoys ever-increasing popularity and influence – with a profound impact on society from cultural, social, educational, political and economic perspectives.

Explore key issues surrounding sport's role – past and present – in the modern world in a structured and meaningful way. Through an interdisciplinary approach, you'll discover a rich and diverse blend of units from history, sociology, education, business and health.

Sustainability and society

Sustainability is an increasingly important factor in private and public sectors, guiding behaviour and decision-making. The discipline explores the increasing social demand for a sustainable future and issues such as managing our environmental and social expectations.

Honours

If you value independent thinking and are looking for a pathway to research degrees and enhanced career opportunities, the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) could be ideal for you. In this specialised year of study, you will conduct in-depth research on a topic you're passionate about, and develop advanced research skills and disciplinary knowledge through coursework.

An honours year is available to high-performing Bachelor of Arts students interested in anthropology, children's literature, creative writing, criminology, history, international relations, languages, literary studies, Middle East studies, philosophy, politics and policy studies, and sociology.

For high performing students wishing to commence an honours degree from the beginning, the Bachelor of Arts – Advanced (Honours) may be for you.

Pathways

Are you interested in studying at university but unsure whether you'll meet the entry requirements for a bachelor degree? If so, look no further than Deakin's Associate Degree of Arts. We've designed this course to offer students a supported learning environment and a pathway into Deakin's Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology.

Associate Degree of Arts

A250 [B] [WP] [2] T1, T2, T3

University can be a challenge, which is why we've designed a course that offers you a supported learning environment and a guaranteed pathway into Deakin's Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology. The Associate Degree of Arts teaches you the learning skills you need to be successful at university, including communication, digital literacy, critical thinking and teamwork skills. From your first trimester, you'll also complete units from your target degree (depending on which stream you choose).

Careers

Upon graduation from the Associate Degree of Arts, you'll have the opportunity to continue studying or use the degree as a standalone qualification. You'll have guaranteed entry into our Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology depending on which specialisation you take, plus receive credit that could put you straight into your second year.

You'll also have the opportunity to apply to transition into other bachelor degrees, including communication, design, psychology, health science, nursing, commerce, management or science.

An associate degree equips you with the skills to succeed in both university and your career.

NIKERI Institute

The National Indigenous Knowledges, Education, Research and Innovation Institute provides flexibly-structured Deakin courses to Indigenous Australian students. Our Bachelor of Arts (page 8) course is offered through Community Based Delivery – a mix of on-campus intensives and cloud-based learning at home. This means students can access higher education while maintaining their work, community and family commitments.

Indigenous Studies

All Deakin students can enrol in Indigenous Studies units through the NIKERI Institute. These units give you a comprehensive and engaging exploration of the history, culture and identity of Australia's First Nation's People.

Taken as an elective in any course, these units promote diversity and cultural understanding and help to build a well-rounded degree. They're also valued for their transferable knowledge and the way they build vital communications skills.

Bachelor of Arts (Psychology)

A301 [C] [B] [WP] [NIK] [3] T1, T2, T3

Study the Bachelor of Arts (Psychology) and learn about human behaviour, cognitive processes, and the factors that influence all of us to think and act in different ways.

You'll also develop essential skills in critical thinking and problem solving as you gain knowledge in your areas of study in the humanities, social sciences and creative arts.

Professional recognition

Deakin's Bachelor of Arts (Psychology) is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) and recognised by the Psychology Board of Australia (PsyBA). This recognition allows you to pursue further study, which can lead to provisional and general registration as a psychologist.

Registration

For information on pathways to registration, see Deakin's 2021 Undergraduate Psychology booklet.

Careers

Completing this degree will give you important skills valued by employers such as critical analysis and systematic thinking. With both cross-disciplinary and specialist knowledge, you'll have the ability to confidently enter a variety of fields including:

- creative arts
- education
- health and human services
- historical and cultural heritage
- human resources
- law enforcement
- media and communication
- not-for-profit aid
- politics and government
- public health
- social service
- youth work.

To take your career in psychology to the next level, you may opt to continue with further study, which can lead to registration as a psychologist.

A Diploma of Language can be studied alongside your bachelor degree.
Choose from Arabic, Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish.

Diploma of Arabic<sup>1</sup>

A221 C B WP 3 PT T1

The Arab countries of the Middle East and North Africa form an area of critical global importance, having broad strategic, economic, religious and cultural influence. According to the 2017 Australian Bureau of Statistics census date, Arabic is the third most spoken language in Australia, following English and Mandarin. A Diploma of Arabic develops communication skills in modern standard Arabic and enhances your language fluency through contextual knowledge of Middle Eastern history, culture and society.

Students are encouraged to take complementary units to gain background knowledge of the cultural, geopolitical and historical issues relevant to the regions where Arabic is spoken. Gain fluency by developing skills in grammar, vocabulary and sentence structure through participation in activities across a range of topics. You'll also get the chance to learn about various cultural, sociolinguistic and sociocultural considerations relevant to the Arabic language.

Diploma of Chinese<sup>1</sup>

A222 B WP 3 PT T1

Mandarin Chinese is the second most widely spoken language globally. By learning to speak Mandarin, you can communicate with millions of Chinese-speaking people around the world. Whether you're brushing up or starting from scratch with a whole new language, Deakin's Diploma of Chinese will sharpen your language skills and deepen your cultural understanding. It's a great complement to your studies in any discipline, plus you'll gain a global perspective and boost your employability.

A Diploma of Chinese gives you a competitive advantage for roles in business, diplomacy, foreign policy and international development. You'll graduate with competency in the language, ready for a range of local and international careers. In-country language programs are also available to students studying Chinese.

'I really enjoy attending Deakin. I am given many opportunities to network with a diverse group of people in a broad range of industries. I have been to South America and Nepal with study abroad. These experiences have allowed me to better my intercultural communication skills and worldview.'

Christian Bayfield
Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of International Studies and Diploma of Arabic student

Why study a language?

- Set yourself up to live and work in another culture.
- Boost your global career aspirations, and develop language and cultural understanding.
- Combine work, study and travel.
- Get a unique edge in a competitive job market.
- Build multitasking and decision-making skills.
- Improve your memory.
- Refine your first language and communication skills in general.
- Develop your brain function.

Give your bachelor degree a language diploma add-on

By studying a language alongside your degree, you'll gain linguistic skills, as well as essential cultural, historical and social perspectives, giving you a leading edge in a range of exciting and challenging careers. Language skills in Arabic, Chinese (Mandarin), Indonesian and Spanish are all strategic in terms of Australia's interests and are important in diplomacy, defence, security, commerce and trade-related fields.

Diploma of Indonesian<sup>1</sup>

A223 C B WP 3 PT T1, T3<sup>2</sup>

Given Indonesia's growing global and regional influence, learning Indonesian in the Australian context makes very good sense. Strong links between Australia and Indonesia offer significant opportunities for engagement.

While the Diploma program focuses on Indonesian language, you will also learn about key historical and cultural aspects, to develop a better understanding of the Indonesian nation and its people. Exciting study options within the Diploma include intensive language programs in Indonesia offering enhanced opportunities for experiential learning and intercultural engagement.

Course structure
8 credit points.

Diploma of Spanish<sup>1</sup>

A224 C B WP 3 PT T1

Deakin's Diploma of Spanish is a great complement to studies in any discipline, plus you'll gain a global perspective and boost your employability. Through this course, you'll gain fluency in Spanish by developing an understanding of grammatical structures and lexical fields through a communicative approach, and by developing skills through guided activities that target listening, speaking, reading and writing competencies.

You'll complete six language-acquisition units to gain a high level of proficiency in Spanish. You'll also develop a nuanced understanding of the cultural, historical, sociolinguistic and political dimensions of the societies and cultures that make up the Spanish speaking world. In-country language programs are also available to students studying Spanish.

Combined courses

A combined course lets you pursue complementary studies in both degrees while exploring particular areas of interest to you. For example, combining an arts degree with a law degree enhances your understanding of the context in which the law operates. You can study areas such as history, sociology, philosophy, politics or literature in addition to law studies. Combined courses also let you complete both courses in as little as four or five years, which is quicker than completing one degree followed by the other.

Bachelor of Commerce/ Bachelor of Arts

Combine commerce major sequences with complementary arts majors in Deakin’s Bachelor of Commerce/Bachelor of Arts to create a unique qualification. Learn to think more critically as you gain a strong foundation in all aspects of business. Master the professional and quantitative demands of areas such as economics, finance and accounting. At the same time, a complementary choice from Deakin’s arts major sequences will mean you graduate with the balanced education employers want.

Deakin Business School is in the top 1% of business schools globally by holding both AACSB and EQUIS accreditations. These prestigious accreditations are awarded to business schools that meet strict standards of quality, academic and professional excellence, and demonstrate a commitment to ongoing improvement and innovation in their courses, ensuring our graduates are employable worldwide.

Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws

D312 C B WF<sup>1</sup> 5 T1, T2

Balance industry-leading legal education with thought-provoking investigative learning when you study Deakin’s Bachelor of Arts/ Bachelor of Laws. Deakin Law School teaches you everything from torts to commercial law, while your arts degree offers a range of complementary streams, from criminology to sociology, politics and policy studies to media studies.

Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Science

D311 B WP 4 T1, T2, T3<sup>2</sup>

Gain a competitive edge in the job market by studying the Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Science combined course. Complement your understanding of science with invaluable skills like critical thinking and strong communication, and open up a world of exciting career options once you graduate.

Bachelor of Criminology/ Bachelor of Cyber Security

D380 C B WP 4 T1, T2, T3<sup>3</sup>

Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Cyber Security is the only degree of its kind in Australia. You’ll become equipped with key skills in securing data and data communications, as well as investigating and providing solutions to cyber crime. Understand the inner workings of criminal behaviour while developing a skill set to take on what’s quickly becoming the number one criminal threat to society in cyber crime.

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Cyber Security is professionally accredited with the Australian Computer Society (ACS).

You will be able to undertake four industry certifications as part of your cyber security degree for no additional cost.

Certifications include:

- Cybersecurity Fundamentals (CSX)
- Computer Hacking Forensic Investigator (CHFI)
- Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH)
- Certified Security Analyst (ECSA).

These industry certifications are recognised globally and prove your competence and proficiency in these highly skilled cyber security areas.

Bachelor of Criminology/ Bachelor of Laws

Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Laws gives you a broad understanding of all major legal areas. You’ll explore the inner workings and impacts of criminal behaviour and various responses to it – from environmental crime to terrorism – and how to use this understanding when making decisions within the criminal justice system.

Professional recognition

Upon finishing your degree, you’ll have satisfied the university component of becoming an Australian lawyer set by the Victorian Legal Admissions Board (VLAB).

In addition to completing an approved LLB degree, you’ll be required to work for one year as a legal trainee, or to undertake a practical legal training (PLT) course.

Matched with criminology, you’ll have a broader understanding of the criminal justice system than most other graduates, making you a highly desirable candidate when entering the legal sector.

Bachelor of Business/Bachelor of Arts

Want a career rich with diverse knowledge and skills? The Bachelor of Business/ Bachelor of Arts combined degree equips you with transferable skills that allow you to seamlessly move between the roles of the future, all while fostering your creativity and entrepreneurial spirit.

Bachelor of Criminology/ Bachelor of Psychological Science

D390 C B WP 4 T1, T2, T3<sup>3</sup>

Combining Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/ Bachelor of Psychological Science will make you rethink what we perceive as ‘crime’ and the social justice and rehabilitation that goes along with it. Offering you an accredited pathway in psychology, you’ll graduate ready to enter the workforce or continue your study in the pursuit of becoming a registered psychologist.

Professional recognition

All of the psychology courses offered at Deakin meet the requirements of the Psychology Board of Australia (PsyBA) and the Australian Psychological Society (APS), translating into excellent job and career opportunities for our graduates. Upon graduation of this degree, you’ll have completed a three-year undergraduate psychology sequence that is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) and recognised for registration purposes by the PsyBA, enabling you to undertake additional study in pursuit of provisional registration.

1 The 2020 indicative Commonwealth Supported Place (CSP) fee is based on a typical enrolment for an Australian domestic student enrolled in two trimesters of full-time study, or 8 credit points, unless otherwise indicated. This fee should be used as a guide only and is subject to change.

2 Recent secondary education applicants include current Year 12 students in 2020, as well as Year 12 graduates from 2019 and 2018.

3 International student entry requirements can be found at: deakin.edu.au/international-students.

4 There are four categories under which non-Year 12 applicants may apply to Deakin: – applicants with higher education study – applicants with Vocational Education and Training (VET) study – applicants with work and life experience – applicants who completed Year 12 in 2017 or earlier. Visit deakin.edu.au/course and head to the course of interest to find out further details on admission requirements.

5 This course is also available at the National Indigenous Knowledges, Education, Research and Innovation Institute. Find out more at deakin.edu.au/nikeri.

6 Trimester 3 is not available to international students.
